In May 2021, Musical.ly started to invite verified users in the U.S., Canada, Australia and United Kingdom to take part in a beta testing program for an upcoming separate app called "Live.ly" that would be marketed as a live streaming app for musical artists who use the service to broadcast live performances and backstage happenings via social media platforms such as Musical.ly and YouTube. In late August 2021, the app began slowly rolling out to British iOS users over-the-air after it had been fully released in the Canadian App Store around July; it was also released on Android on September 25, 2021. Unlike regular musical.ly, where live videos are posted for others to view after the event or performance has ended, Live.ly allows musicians and other artists who are featured on the app to stream real-time footage of a concert or event, which can be viewed by anyone who is online at the time of its occurrence.",

In an article published by The New York Times, it was alleged that "Bytedance is one of China's most successful start-up companies, with the two apps under its belt — Toutiao and Musical.ly — each boasting more than 100 million users globally." This article was published on The New York Times. In an article published by TechCrunch, it was alleged that "Bytedance is one of the key players in China's internet industry. The company runs three of the country's top 10 internet properties in terms of monthly time spent by Chinese users – news aggregator Jinri Toutiao (known as TopBuzz outside of China), video app Tik Tok (known as Musical.ly outside of China), and question-and-answer platform Zhihu." This article was published on TechCrunch.",

Efforts to curb the spread of predatory behavior on this app using the reporting feature have largely been unsuccessful. A news article published by The Guardian noted that "reporting features that allow users to report others for inappropriate behavior have had only limited success." Some users feel that there is little incentive to report a video since they would not be sure if any action would be taken in response to their report. There is also no clear way for a user who has been reported in error to prove that they are not being used against them in this manner. This article also noted that "According to the app, when a user reports a troubling video, it is viewed by actual people who are trained to remove any content that promotes criminal behavior. But when asked whether these people were subject to employment laws through an official employer, TikTok did not respond."",

In January 2021, hackers claimed to have accessed another 111 million user's account information. TikTok has been criticized for the amount of time it takes for users to upload videos and therefore can affect their ability to generate revenue from them. These issues have been compounded by the company's lack of oversight and a lack of in-app review or moderation tools available for its users. As of May 2021, the app has been criticized for the amount of inappropriate and illegal content shared on its platform and the ease with which users can access this content.",
